

The Sun

SUNDAY, JUNE 21, 1891.

Subscription by Mail—Post-paid.
DAILY, Per Year, $10.00
SUNDAY, Per Year, $5.00
DAILY AND SUNDAY, Per Year, $15.00
DAILY AND SUNDAY, Per Month, $1.50
DAILY AND SUNDAY, Per Week, $0.50
Foreign Subscriptions, add 25%
This Sun, New York City.

Subscriptions to THE SUN may be made through the Purchasing Department of the American Express Company at any place where that Company has an agency. Agents will give a money order receipt for money orders and will send the money order attached to an order to send the paper for any stated time, free of any charge, except the usual fee for issuing the order.

Is John Sherman the Next Victim?

The most notable achievement of the Farmers' Alliance so far has been the defeat of Mr. INGALLS. The Republican party and the country have been deprived of the services of one of the most acute and brilliant men that have had a seat in the United States Senate in this generation. It looks as if the Alliance were to win a victory of the same kind, though secured in a different way, in Ohio.

To conclude the Farmers' Alliance the Ohio Republicans have not only selected their candidate for Lieutenant-Governor for its special benefit, but as far as can now be judged, they are willing to sacrifice JOHN SHERMAN to the farmers.

FORAKER and his gang are not of themselves strong enough to prevent the reelection of Mr. SHERMAN to the Senate. They are making use of the supposed hostility of the farmers to his financial views to pave the way for his reelection. They are aware that Mr. SHERMAN has indicated meekly his wish that the fight for the Senate should not begin until the State campaign is ended.

It would have been less meek if he had not seen himself threatened by his old enemies, with the man whose trickery he had so many proofs of at his head, and apparently on the point of being deserted, through fear of the farmers, by many of the men who have hitherto stood by him.

Can the Ohio Republicans afford to abandon Mr. SHERMAN and surrender to the Farmers' Alliance? Better the deal, which can be but temporary, than Major McKIMLEY in his speech before the Republican State Convention, "than capitulate with the demagogue, or surrender to dishonesty. The misguided citizen never forgives the party that misleads him." To refuse to reelect JOHN SHERMAN because he is disliked by the representatives of Peorian political economy and wildcat finance, would be a capitulation to the demagogue and a surrender to dishonesty.

The Farmers' Alliance drove Mr. INGALLS from the Senate in spite of the opposition of the Kansas Republicans. Will the Ohio Republicans do the same to Mr. SHERMAN from the Senate, and will the other part of the Republican party of Ohio help the brass-browed FORAKER to do the job?

The Prince of Wales Again.

The storm of disapproval aroused by the Prince of Wales's connection with the Transvaal scandal has by no means died away. The non-conformist religious bodies continue to pass resolutions of censure; and the working classes, with whom the heir to the throne enjoys the closest of ties, have been so much incensed by the hostile demonstrations in the streets as to feel that they should carry out a long projected plan of visiting Birmingham. The attack begun last week by certain Radical members in the House of Commons is to be renewed in the debate over the army estimates, and the War Secretary will again be called upon to explain the non-enforcement of the army regulations which required the offence committed by Sir WILLIAM GORDON-CUMMING to be immediately reported to his commanding officer. Meanwhile the Prince has been severely lectured by his nephew, the young German Emperor, and it is extremely probable that his mother has expressed her opinion of his conduct in plain terms. Harder of all to bear must be the consciousness that among gentlemen in England and all over the world, the impression is deepening that, however heinous may have been CUMMING's offence, and however richly deserving of the severest penalty, his treatment at the Prince's hands cannot be described as fair, while the Prince's motives for his treatment of the Duke of Devonshire's son will not bear close investigation.

As people on both sides of the Atlantic have shown an inclination to take sides on this question, and have fallen for the most part to discuss in a judicial way, we would repeat that our own view of the Prince of Wales's relation to the affair is not affected by the slightest sympathy for Sir WILLIAM GORDON-CUMMING. The latter invited the decision of a jury, and the verdict has been against him. In the face of the document signed by him we do not see how any other verdict was possible. The notion that an honest man would sign a virtual confession of cheating at cards from a chivalrous wish to save his future sovereign from possible annoyance, is, of course, preposterous. To imagine such a sacrifice being offered or accepted, is to strangely misconceive the ideals governing the perfect knight, when knighthood was a reality. One has but to ask oneself what answer would have been made by the Chevalier Bayard had he been asked to perform such a shameful service for FRANCIS I. The true ideal of chivalry was expressed by LUTHERANUS in the famous line: "I could love thee, dear, so much, loved I not honor more." Besides, they who know anything at all of the London world, or who have caught even the most casual glimpses behind the scenes, would be revolted at the imputation of chivalrous self-immolation to Sir WILLIAM GORDON-CUMMING. The man had been notorious for years for boasting indoors and out of his successes with married women, and had been branded with the odious nickname of "WILLIAM TELL." Those who are familiar with his base behavior in this particular, were prepared to believe him guilty of any other iniquity; and if they for a time supposed that he might hesitate to cheat at cards, it was solely because they recognized the difficulty of playing the sharper with impunity. There is no man or woman in London acquainted with CUMMING's career who has any pity to waste on him; and the notion expressed in the New York Times that he would be treated with tolerance, and even hospitality, in this country, reflects no credit upon those who entertain it.

Yet there is truth in the vulgar proverb that we should give the devil his due. Infamously base as CUMMING was known to be in his relations to women, the Prince of Wales had condoned his baseness, had continued to treat him as an intimate friend, and had signified a wish that he should be invited to Transvaal. It was by the same pretence of friendship that he has excused to his fellow officers his own agreement to preserve secrecy regarding the disgraceful act in which CUMMING was detected; and it was distinctly in consideration of that agreement that the poor wretch signed the paper which robbed him of all power of self-protection before a jury. As an officer of the British army, the Prince of Wales ought never to have entered into any such agreement, but having made it, he assumed a certain duty toward the other party. The consideration for CUMMING's confession having failed through the disclosure of the secret, it was the Prince's duty to return the incriminating paper. This would have been his duty, had the secret been divulged by others; how much more it is now universally believed—it was the Prince of Wales himself who leaked. CUMMING's offense having been made public, the Prince of Wales, as a gentleman, was under an imperative obligation to replace his former friend as nearly as possible in the position which he would have occupied had no confession been wrung from him. The Prince of Wales could prove in court of justice that CUMMING had cheated at card table, but they would have an opportunity of doing so. It was not for the Prince of Wales to strengthen their hands with an avowed act through a promise which had been perforce broken.

Yet their hands he did so strengthen. He retained the confession of the man whom he had called his friend. He gave it to the counsel for the WILSONS, and when it was produced in court, the fate of the miserable culprit was of course irrevocably sealed. Besides the clamorous denunciation of the family by the Prince of Wales, which was not confined to the exhibition of a single piece of damning testimony. His own examination was concluded on the first day of the trial, yet day after day, for two weeks, the Prince continued to take his seat upon the bench by the side of the Lord Chief Justice, and to give the weighty moral support of his presence and sympathy to the defendants in the case. This extraordinary reversal of his former attitude toward CUMMING, this phenomenal devotion of the heir apparent to individuals who had spoken charitably, and newcomers in the social world, naturally excited much curiosity concerning the nature of the motives which were directing the conduct of the Prince. Unhappily, the sordid nature of those motives is now known. The Prince had accepted from Mr. WILSON a loan amounting to about a million dollars, and he felt himself compelled to keep his creditor in good humor by upholding him and his family in society and in the halls of justice. It is in other words, in pursuance of a cold-blooded bargain, not the least distinct because unexpressed in words, that he has to the English monarchy produced in court CUMMING's confession obtained on a broken pledge of secrecy, and did in other ways his utmost to consign a quondam friend to irretrievable ruin.

It is reflection upon these facts that must convince even the people in the Marlborough House set, that in the case of CUMMING the devil did get his due, and that H. R. H. of WALES has given a sinister significance to the maxim: "Put not your trust in princes."

A Good Man Gone Astray.

The disastrous result of one of the most promising journalistic expeditions ever undertaken has just been announced and confessed in the columns of the Evening Post.

That newspaper sent one of its editors, Mr. HORACE WHITE, into the heart of Asia Minor to ascertain the sentiment of the Transvaal people on the subject of civil service reform. Mr. WHITE's own report went forth as a noble mission, or with higher and purer resolve. You would have thought that no better ambassador could be selected for the delicate, if not perilous business. Mr. HORACE WHITE is an experienced observer, an intelligent reporter, and the master of a lucid and attractive style. It had always been believed that he would be faithful unto death to civil service reform, or any other reform beginning with a capital R.

What has happened to this almost ideally equipped explorer and missionary, on whose fidelity rested the hopes of all Mugwumpdom? Let Mr. HORACE WHITE's own truthful if humbling confession answer:

"I was a girl in the Greek quarter of Istanbul, the other day, when I was asked to go to the house of Mr. M. who was a place of great importance. I brought back dreams of Arcadia from my solitary days."

From that moment all was lost. The liquid glance from the eyes of the Greek girl with an appetite for donkey flesh, knocked civil service reform higher than Helicon, so far as the Apostle to the Turks was concerned. Mr. HORACE WHITE got no further with the business on which he was specially bent than to chronicle the obvious and not very valuable fact that Turkey is bally in need of civil service reform.

There is not a member of the Reform Club in the fifth avenue who did not know that already. What they wanted to learn from their carefully chosen emissary was how far public sentiment in Turkey would sustain an attempt to force upon the Sultan and the local administrators of the pashaliks or vilayets, and even upon the village mukhtars, the teachings of DOMMAN B. EATON and his disciples; by what methods the political conscience of the Anatolian and Angoran and Mesopotamian populace could be reached; how the campaign of education could be conducted, and where it should begin; with incidental services in his part in the way of extending the circulation of the Post in these benighted regions.

But the Greek girl who looked like the Venus of Milo played the mischief with the foreign missionary of civil service reform. He sends back to America merely the perfunctory message, almost insulting to intelligence, that Turkey is in need of civil service reform; and then he wanders off into amatory rhapsodies which, we fear, will be regarded as howl wash by the more serious minded members of the Reform Club. The only conspicuous examinations in which Mr. WHITE is interested is the one established by Commissioner PANIS on Mount Gargarus, with deplorable results. The reformers might as well have sent out FRICK. The spurious idea of AMACROUS, as connoisseurs by Mr. HORACE WHITE in youthful days, with the assistance of Mr. THOMAS MOORE of the Middle Temple, crowd out of his superheated mind all that he has learned in middle age from Mr. DOMMAN B. EATON of the Middle Kingdom.

"He been, like the vernal green,
Reverend with little warning leaves."

Instead of devoting himself to the promotion of the moral system in the Asiatic vilayets, his thoughts run unceasingly upon that fatal glance of fire!

Heavenly! It was by the same pretence of friendship that he has excused to his fellow officers his own agreement to preserve secrecy regarding the disgraceful act in which CUMMING was detected; and it was distinctly in consideration of that agreement that the poor wretch signed the paper which robbed him of all power of self-protection before a jury. As an officer of the British army, the Prince of Wales ought never to have entered into any such agreement, but having made it, he assumed a certain duty toward the other party. The consideration for CUMMING's confession having failed through the disclosure of the secret, it was the Prince's duty to return the incriminating paper. This would have been his duty, had the secret been divulged by others; how much more it is now universally believed—it was the Prince of Wales himself who leaked. CUMMING's offense having been made public, the Prince of Wales, as a gentleman, was under an imperative obligation to replace his former friend as nearly as possible in the position which he would have occupied had no confession been wrung from him. The Prince of Wales could prove in court of justice that CUMMING had cheated at card table, but they would have an opportunity of doing so. It was not for the Prince of Wales to strengthen their hands with an avowed act through a promise which had been perforce broken.

Yet their hands he did so strengthen. He retained the confession of the man whom he had called his friend. He gave it to the counsel for the WILSONS, and when it was produced in court, the fate of the miserable culprit was of course irrevocably sealed. Besides the clamorous denunciation of the family by the Prince of Wales, which was not confined to the exhibition of a single piece of damning testimony. His own examination was concluded on the first day of the trial, yet day after day, for two weeks, the Prince continued to take his seat upon the bench by the side of the Lord Chief Justice, and to give the weighty moral support of his presence and sympathy to the defendants in the case. This extraordinary reversal of his former attitude toward CUMMING, this phenomenal devotion of the heir apparent to individuals who had spoken charitably, and newcomers in the social world, naturally excited much curiosity concerning the nature of the motives which were directing the conduct of the Prince. Unhappily, the sordid nature of those motives is now known. The Prince had accepted from Mr. WILSON a loan amounting to about a million dollars, and he felt himself compelled to keep his creditor in good humor by upholding him and his family in society and in the halls of justice. It is in other words, in pursuance of a cold-blooded bargain, not the least distinct because unexpressed in words, that he has to the English monarchy produced in court CUMMING's confession obtained on a broken pledge of secrecy, and did in other ways his utmost to consign a quondam friend to irretrievable ruin.

It is reflection upon these facts that must convince even the people in the Marlborough House set, that in the case of CUMMING the devil did get his due, and that H. R. H. of WALES has given a sinister significance to the maxim: "Put not your trust in princes."

The Alliance and the Third Party.

The managers of the People's party in Missouri are making efforts to have the Cincinnati platform endorsed by the Farmers' Alliance of that State at the next State meeting. Mr. U. S. HALL, President of the Missouri Alliance, and a strong opponent of the Sub-Treasury plan, which is the chief principle of the third party boomers, has notified the members so that they may choose delegates who will represent their opinions as to the expediency of joining the third party and supporting the Sub-Treasury bill. He does not mention the name of the People's party, but declares his opinion, "for reasons that are intimate acquaintances with our order for several years, that our usefulness is at an end whenever we violate that principle of our constitution which declares that our order is and shall be a non-partisan one."

In regard to the Sub-Treasury bill Mr. HALL avers that "whenever we so far forget our Alliance 'golden rule,' which declares that we are for equal rights to all and special favors to none, as to advocate that special favors be granted to the raisers of wheat, corn, oats, cotton, and tobacco, that cannot be granted to the makers of equally degrading hardy crops of our land, we then declare to the world that our noble order is not complaining of the robbing of our Government by class legislation, but that we are complaining because we are not among the robbers."

Mr. HALL had the good sense and the courage to oppose the Sub-Treasury bill at the Ocala Convention. "I am," he said, "uncompromisingly opposed to this scheme, for the following reasons: First, it is in violation of the Constitution of the United States; secondly, it is subversive of, and directly opposed to, the constitution, principles, and demands of the order; thirdly, it is a wicked and inequitable policy; it is very extravagant; fourthly, it would bring ruin to the farmers of our country and to all other classes of business; fifthly, it will have, and is now having, the effect of drawing the minds of farmers and other laborers of our country from the greatest source of the age, class legislation; and, if adopted, it will commit us to that principle which will fasten these curses upon us for all time."

He is performing a good service to the Missouri Alliance in seeking to impress upon its members the warning that the Ocala Convention has issued. The Sub-Treasury bill is bad for the reasons he gives, and the point of view of a member of the Alliance is bad for the additional reason that it is used as a wedge with which to split the Alliance. The Alliance may not care greatly whether it would be a violation of its constitution and a perversion of its purpose to make itself a political party, but it must be able to see that to endorse a party about whose most important principle there is a conflict of opinion in the Alliance, would be fatal to the latter. The Alliance leaders, who are threatening to split the Missouri party in two, are not doing so for the third party if the Democracy will not take up the Sub-Treasury plan, are in reality as much enemies of the Alliance as of the Democracy. Some of them are getting found out, as the sharp resolutions adopted by the Prairie Dell Alliance demonstrate:

"Whereas, We view with sadness and alarm the efforts of some of our Alliance leaders to pervert the order from the noble and praiseworthy purpose for which it was founded into a political party machine, and to use the interest of corrupt and designing men, and to use the name of the Alliance in the form of law to the prejudice of all known as the Sub-Treasury bill; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We are determined to maintain the hard-earned motto of the farmers of Texas, advanced in the way of free subscriptions and donations, have been allowed to be short a period of time, to create a general demand in the order for a true amount of their expenditure, which has never been satisfactorily given; and whereas, We